

A photograph of two women dressed in traditional Indian attire, likely sarees, with intricate patterns and colors. They are adorned with elaborate jewelry, including necklaces, earrings, and headpieces. The woman on the left is wearing a green and red patterned sari, while the woman on the right is wearing a pink and red patterned sari. They are both looking towards the camera with slight smiles. The background is a warm, golden-brown color with decorative elements like a hanging bell and floral arrangements.
